Bill was born in Corpus Christi, Texas in 1945 and received his basic education there. After serving three years in the U. S. Army in Germany, he returned to Texas and received a B. B. A. in marketing from Texas A&M, Kingsville in 1971.

Bill began his career with Lever Brothers in January 1972 as a salesman in Victoria, Texas. In 1974 he was selected to attend an intensive week long Development Seminar for the top sales people in the country. The following year Bill was promoted to Unit Manager in Birmingham, Alabama in charge of five sales people covering Alabama and parts of Florida, Tennessee and Mississippi. After serving as Unit Manager for five years Bill was assigned in 1980 to the Field Operations Group headquartered in Lever House in New York City. This group spent two weeks in all selling units in the United States evaluating operations and recommending procedures to improve results for both the specific unit and Lever Brothers as a whole. In August of 1980 Bill was promoted to District Sales Manager in Jacksonville, Florida. The district was composed of 35 sales people responsible for sales of over 90 million dollars.

In 1982 Bill was promoted to Sales Communications Manager in Lever House in New York. Bill and his staff created sales plans and funding allowances, generated official price lists, updated brand information and originated policies and procedures for field sales. The group also collected, analyzed and distributed competitive information to all parts of Unilever worldwide. In addition over 12 million dollars worth of selling material, displays and field support equipment was maintained and shipped to field sales people or the trade.

While continuing to lead the Sales Communications Department Bill was selected by management to participate in several major efforts that would change operations and increase profit for the company. In 1989 he directed a survey for Lever Brothers to understand and improve customer service levels for the business. The results were presented at board level and adopted for Lever Brothers and ultimately for many Unilever operations in the United States. In 1993 Bill served as the sales division representative on the Supply Chain design team. This team in less than a year completely changed the flow of goods from the plant to the retail store, won several awards within Unilever, and was recognized internationally for its innovative approach to customer service using demand planning techniques.

In 1995 Bill was promoted to Director of Efficient Consumer Response, Sales Operations and Communications. The President of Lever Brothers issued the announcement stating that Bill would lead the ECR efforts and would also direct a senior cross functional team. Bill's mission was to bring ECR to the trade and modify Lever Brothers operations to implement ECR initiatives within the business. In December 1995 at an international ECR conference in London Bill presented key ECR conclusions. As a result of his expertise with ECR in 1996 Bill was asked by the Chairman of Unilever South America to spend two weeks in Brazil and Argentina presenting ECR principles and assess opportunities for improving operations within the companies and with the trade. Bill returned to South America six months later to have each company present strategy for beginning ECR work. Bill selected the best for presentation to the South American board. Most of those ideas formed the basis of the everyday operations for Unilever business in South America.

Beginning in 1988 Bill coordinated Lever's environmental activities working with bottle suppliers to make use of recycled plastic in detergent bottles. As more recycled plastic became available Lever started working with companies to use recycled plastic in plastic lumber. This led to a partnership with the National Parks Foundation that from 1992 until 2009 worked with at least 15 parks a year to replace wood or to add new items to the parks using plastic wood. One of the highlights was replacing the walk around Old Faithful with plastic lumber. Unilever always had a local grocery/drug/mass merchandiser as a partner. This was important as they provided employee volunteers as the park events usually involved a work day and to assist with advertising of the park event to the public. For many years Wal-Mart was the only trade partner nation wide.

Upon Unilever's merger of Chesebrough-Ponds, Helene Curtis and Lever Brothers, Bill was selected to be Director of Operations and Communications for Customer Management in the new company, Unilever Home and Personal Care. Bill continued to serve on several teams in the new business such as the Project Management Office which assigned priority for new projects for the company and the long term Customer Service Strategy Team which presented to the board software and process improvements needed to enhance customer service. Over many years at Unilever Bill was liaison to legal and consumer service operations for sales. Bill has over the years had wide exposure leading to a broad perspective in operations and marketing.

Throughout his career Bill's potential was recognized and encouraged by his selection to attend two executive training seminars. In 1992 he attended a 14 day Management Appreciation course for Unilever's top 2% managers world wide. In July of 1996 he attended a two week General Management course again in London. These seminars stressed problem solving and new management techniques

After a 30 year career Bill retired from Unilever and along with his wife Peggy moved to Crozet, Virginia. Bill served on the committee to select an architect to design the new Crozet/Western Albemarle Library as well as the 12 person steering committee for the library. Bill was selected to be chair of the fundraising committee for the new Crozet/Western Albemarle Library which has raised over $1,000,000. Bill served three terms on the Charlottesville/Albemarle Airport Commission and served for 8 years as a member of the Crozet Community Advisory Council. Both of the two previous committees are county supervisor appointed positions. Bill and Peggy recently celebrated 50 years of marriage. They enjoy traveling and reading and Bill is an avid fan of NASCAR and the NFL.

Application - Jefferson-Madison Regional Library Board

Applicant - Michael Powers

July 25, 2017

I am a lifelong library visitor and enthusiast. Since moving to Albemarle County in 2004, my family of four has borrowed over 5,000 books from JMRL — averaging more than a book per day for thirteen years in a row. The benefit for us has been incalculable, and I'd like to give back to the organization and community by contributing my time and ability while bringing fresh perspectives to the Board from the standpoint of an everyday (sometimes, literally "every day") visitor.

My interest in participation began to develop in earnest in 2015, and since then I've attended somewhere between a dozen and a score of Library Board meetings (I believe this is more than any other member of the public during that time), and also visited 8 of the 10 branch locations. With my perspective as a "frequent flyer" library patron, I've been able to suggest several policy improvements that were actually enacted by the Library Board, one of which adopted specific language that I recommended. I feel that with this demonstrated level of sustained engagement, I've already gained familiarization with the Board's activities that will enable me to start contributing quickly.

A few thoughts for directions I am interested in exploring:

- Attending Board meetings, I've learned about so many library services and features that I didn't already know about even as a frequent library visitor. I'd like to think about ways to increase awareness of these many offerings to maximize the return on investment we've already made in the system and usage in our community. Relevant experience: I founded and have operated a music record label for the past 10+ years, which at its core is an exercise in promotion. We've achieved coverage for our releases and artists on high-profile national platforms, including NPR shows Weekend Edition and All Songs Considered, New York Times, Wall Street Journal, Newsweek, and USA Today.
- Technology continues to reshape patterns of media consumption for all types of content, including print. Although I don't see my own personal preference for "real" books printed on actual paper ever changing, we need to stay in front of these trends in terms of patron demand and vehicles for supplying digital content. Relevant experience: I have a background in technology and played a number of roles both technical and managerial at a high-growth software company for the previous 10 years.
- Lastly, I'd like to keep an eye on changing demographics in the County, particularly growth in the 5th Street / MHS areas. At what point will it make sense to look at adding a branch location?

Ultimately, I understand that my role as an Albemarle County appointee is to work on behalf of the Supervisors to represent the County's interests on the Library Board. A healthy and vibrant library is a vital asset to our community, and I want to do everything I can to help it thrive.
